Course Description

A salsera (salsa dancer) steps onto the ballroom floor with her partner, sequins flashing in the light. A male ballerina, decked out in tutu and pointe shoes, earns a standing ovation for his starring role in Swan Lake. A b-girl enters a circle of break-dancers, spinning on her head and freezing upside down, challenging assumptions about ladylike behavior. In each of these scenarios, dancers and onlookers confront societal expectations about how one should move according to one’s (perceived) identities. Latinx dancers are stereotyped as sensual; white men are supposed to be bad dancers; women are expected to be graceful and demure. This course explores such assumptions and how dancers themselves both perpetuate and contest these assumptions.

But we won’t stop there— The course interrogates whether or not social ideas about identity impact dance. We will also consider the reverse perspective, does dance impact social ideas about identity? We will ask these questions as we move through the course. In fact, the essential question of this course is: When we see dance - from ballet to Beyoncé – does it inform our ideas about race, ethnicity, and/or gender?

Course materials will focus on dance practices in the U.S. from the late-nineteenth century to present-day. Students will learn about dance through a variety of activities, including watching pre-recorded lectures, reading assigned texts, viewing documentary films and performance videos, and participating in weekly class discussion and occasional in-class movement workshops (no previous dance experience required). Assessments include discussion board posts, quizzes, other assignments (e.g. Perusall), class participation, written essays, and a final project presentation.

*While topics of race and identity are addressed, they are done in a manner that does not endorse concepts addressed in SB266.

Quest and General Education Credit

- Quest 1
- Humanities
- Diversity (D)

This course accomplishes the Quest and General Education objectives of the subject areas listed above. A minimum grade of C is required for Quest and General Education credit. Courses intended to satisfy Quest and General Education requirements cannot be taken S-U.

Required Readings & Technology

Required text: NONE. All book chapters, journal articles and other readings/viewings will be posted to Canvas and/ or made available through course reserves.

Instructional materials for this course consist of only those materials specifically reviewed, selected, and assigned by the instructor(s). The instructor(s) is only responsible for these instructional materials.

Canvas: This course is set up on Canvas (e-learning). All students must have access to Canvas on a regular basis to successfully complete the course. All writing assignments and out-of-class communication will take place in Canvas. No hard copies will be accepted. A schedule and timeline for the course can be found on the Canvas calendar. For help at Canvas, contact the UF Computing Help Desk at 352-392-4357 or via e-mail at helpdesk@ufl.edu.

Late Work

Assignments must be submitted on Canvas by the time/date they are due to earn credit. No assignments will be accepted via email after the Canvas assignment closes. Late work may only be submitted if the student makes a request in advance with documentation. This may be an accommodations letter from the Disability Resource Center or documentation of an event admissible under UF policy for excused absences and extensions. Technical issues (for example, your computer crashes just as you are uploading an assignment one minute before the portal closes) are not valid reasons for requesting permission to submit late work. Plan on and account for technical glitches when submitting assignments (in other words, do not wait until the minute before the assignment closes to submit). If you find yourself experiencing an emergency and cannot request an extension in advance, contact the instructor and/or teaching assistant as soon as possible. In most cases, late work appeals will not be considered more than a week after the due date has passed.

Lowest 2 Scores Dropped

Part of this course is learning the content; another part, for many of us, is learning how to use the online tools. For this reason, I have set a rule in Canvas to automatically drop your two lowest scores at the end of the course. This will NOT include any of the big assignments:

- Reflection Essay - cannot drop
- Pop Culture Analytical Essay - cannot drop
- Final Project Proposal - cannot drop
- Final Project - cannot drop

However, all Canvas discussions, Canvas quizzes, PlayPosit quizzes, and Perusall assignments are fair game. Your two lowest scores will not be counted in your final course grade.

Grading Rubrics

Each assignment will be graded with its own rubric. Please see Canvas assignments for grading rubrics.

Attendance and Participation:

Requirements for class attendance, make-up assignments, and other work in this course are consistent with university policies that can be found at: <https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/attendance-policies/>

- Attendance will be taken each time that the class meets for synchronous sessions in person or on Zoom. You must be able to attend synchronous discussion sections in order to pass this course. For details on how attendance is factored into your final grade, see “Attendance Policy” in the “Policies & Expectations” section below.
- Participation: Consistent informed, thoughtful, and considerate class participation is expected and will be evaluated using the rubric below. Participation includes contributing to class discussions, completing in-class activities, and participating in virtual movement labs. Your participation will appear as a weekly “assignment” in Canvas.
 - Step up, step back! Much like writing, verbal and physical communication are skills that can be learned and practiced. There are many ways to participate, including asking questions, answering questions, reading aloud from the text, participating in class discussion, participating in small group activities, responding to your peers, sharing a relevant experience, observing & taking notes on a dance workshop, even attending the instructor’s office hours. If you are someone who likes to talk during class (great!), participation for you also means allowing some silence and space for others to jump in. Follow this rule: step up/step back. If you have personal issues that prohibit you from joining freely in class discussion or movement workshops, e.g., shyness, language barriers, learning disability, physical disability, health concerns, etc., please see the instructor as soon as possible to discuss alternative modes of participation.
 - You can’t participate if you’re not there! Please note that participation is calculated separately from attendance. Even if your absence is excused or a “freebie,” you may not earn participation points for a day in which you’re not in class. To make up participation points, you can visit the instructor during office hours shortly before or after your missed class. You may make up participation points with an office hours visit even if your absence is unexcused.

III. Annotated Weekly Schedule

This course schedule is tentative and subject to change as the instructor responds to needs of the class and changing external circumstances.

Most weeks, our course will involve watching a video recorded lecture and completing readings/viewings on your own; a quiz, a discussion board post and/or replies, occasionally an additional assignment on Perusall or PowerPoint; and a synchronous meeting. Plan to spend on 10 hrs/week on this course.

- Tuesday by 11:59 PM:
 - Complete PlayPosit/ Canvas Quiz
 - Complete Perusall / PowerPoint assignment
- Wednesday by 11:59 PM
 - On assigned weeks, make an original Discussion Board post in response to a prompt based on assigned readings/viewings.*
- Friday:
 - Attend synchronous discussion section during the section in which you're enrolled
 - By 11:59 PM:
 - On assigned weeks, make reply to two classmates on discussion board*
 - On select Fridays, submit big assignments
- Saturday-Monday: View recorded lecture, read/view assigned material, and take notes.

*Each discussion section will be divided into two groups: Orange (last names A-L) and Blue (last names M-Z). On some weeks, Orange Group will post and Blue Group will reply. On other weeks, Blue Group will post and Orange Group will reply. Some weeks, everyone will post and reply. Detailed instructions and a rubric for discussion board posts and replies will be provided.

IV. Student Learning Outcomes (SLOs)

At the end of this course, students will be expected to have achieved the Quest and General Education learning outcomes as follows:

Content: Students demonstrate competence in the terminology, concepts, theories and methodologies used within the discipline(s).

- Identify, describe, and explain the key terminologies, theories, and methodologies of Dance Studies and related disciplines to ask how dancing bodies participate in the social ideas about race and gender and related categories of identity, including but not limited to ethnicity, sexuality, citizenship status, class, ability, age, etc. (Humanities & Quest 1)
 - Assessed through Quizzes, Discussion Board Posts, Perusall Discussions, Class participation, “Dance, Gender, and Me” Reflection Essay, “Dance in Popular Culture” Essay, Final Project
- Describe and explain the historical processes and contemporary experiences characterizing the role of concert and social/popular dance in establishing and questioning social and cultural differences, namely race and gender differences, within the United States and select international contexts. (Diversity)
 - Assessed through Discussion Board Posts, Perusall Discussions, Class participation, Reflection Essay, “Dance in Popular Culture” Essay, Final Project

Critical Thinking: Students carefully and logically analyze information from multiple perspectives and develop reasoned solutions to problems within the discipline(s).

- Analyze and evaluate dance’s role in social constructions of race and gender, and attending sociopolitical categories of identity, including but not limited to ethnicity, sexuality, citizenship status, class, ability, age, etc., using established practices appropriate to the arts and humanities. (Humanities & Quest 1)
 - Assessed through Discussion Board Posts, Perusall Discussions, Class participation, “Dance in Popular Culture” Essay, Final Project
- Analyze and evaluate how ideologies about race and gender are perpetuated and challenged through dance performances, in both concert and social contexts, and how such ideologies affect social inequities across the US population. Analyze and reflect on the ways in which dance is a means by which cultures and beliefs mediate their own and other people’s understandings of themselves and an increasingly diverse U.S. society. (Diversity)
 - Assessed through Discussion Board Posts, Perusall Discussions, Class participation, Reflection Essay, “Dance in Popular Culture” Essay, Final Project

Communication: Students communicate knowledge, ideas and reasoning clearly and effectively in written and oral forms appropriate to the discipline(s).

- Develop and present clear, effective, and thoughtful responses to questions about dance’s role in shaping social ideas of race and gender in both written, verbal, and movement communication. (Humanities & Quest 1)
 - Assessed through Discussion Board Posts, Perusall Discussions, Class participation, Reflection Essay, “Dance in Popular Culture” Essay, Final Project

Connection: Students connect course content with meaningful critical reflection on their intellectual, personal, and professional development at UF and beyond.

- Connect course content with critical reflection on the role that dance plays in their lives and in U.S. society now, and the role it might play in their lives after college. (Quest 1)
 - Assessed through Reflection Essay, PowerPoint Assignment, Looking Back/ Looking Ahead Discussion Board posts, Class Participation

V. Quest Learning Experiences

Details of Experiential Learning Component

1. Movement Labs: Dance Studies is invested in embodied learning; as such, we will inject occasional movement experiences into the course. Sometimes these will be simple Mini-Movement Labs led by the TA; and/or conducted on your own as a video assignment (no special attire required). No dance experience is required, but students are expected to approach embodied exercises and movement-based classes with the same rigor and attention as given to discussion. If you have any concerns or questions about your participation in this experiential learning component, please see me as soon as possible to discuss alternative forms of participation.

2. Dance Experience Attendance: This class asks students to select one dance experience to attend on their own and to reflect on it in their final project. No dance experience/ special access required. Details and options for attending dance experiences open to anyone and everyone – in Gainesville and online - will be provided.

Details of Self-Reflection Component

Quest requires some formal reflection where students reckon with what they think, why they think it, and what the implications of their thoughts are. This course will ask you to grapple with your own exposure to and experience with dance as a tool for constructing (and de-/re-constructing) race and gender. It assumes that, even if you don't consider yourself a dancer, you have had some contact with dance – even if it's just through music videos and advertising. Chances are, no matter what your history with dance, you haven't been given many opportunities to think critically about it. This course asks you to change that. Self-reflection will be a part of in-class writing tasks, class discussion prompts, and part of graded work. The first essay of the semester, "Dance, Race, Gender and Me," will ask students to think through key terms of the course in terms of their own dance biography; this essay will be revisited in a discussion board post and during an in-class movement and discussion activity near the end of the semester.

VI. Policies & Expectations

Attendance Policy

Attendance is mandatory to pass this class. Requirements for class attendance and make-up exams, assignments, and other work in this course are consistent with university policies that can be found at: <https://catalog.ufl.edu/UGRD/academic-regulations/attendance-policies/>

- “Freebie” policy: You may take 2 discretionary (unexcused) absences with no penalty. In addition to your 2 discretionary absences, you may also take 2 discretionary late arrivals/early departures without penalty.
- Grade deductions for unexcused absences: Each unexcused absence after 2 will result in a 5% deduction in your final grade. Each late arrival/early departure after 2 will result in a 1% deduction from the final grade.
- Excused absences, which are reasons to miss class that fall under UF’s policy, will be counted as excused only if the student provides appropriate documentation to the instructor and TA before the absence, if at all possible, but no later than one week after the missed class. In most cases, appeals to an excused absence will not be considered more than a week after the missed class. If you are unsure about obtaining documentation, or have a significant event that is affecting multiple classes, consider getting a letter sent to your instructors through the Dean of Students’ CARE Team (“Contact My Instructor”).
- Attend the section in which you’re enrolled: You must attend the section in which you are enrolled (in person or zoom). Attending a different section from the one in which you are enrolled will count as an unexcused absence.
- Attendance is not the same as participation. If your absence is a “freebie” or excused, your grade will not be penalized for the absence. However, if you’re not there, you cannot participate. You will receive 0/1 points for participation for any classes missed for any reason. However, you can make up missed participation points by attending Dr. Carrico’s office hours via Zoom or in person. If you are not available during her office hours, contact her via Canvas Inbox to make an appointment.

Students Requiring Accommodation

Students with disabilities who experience learning barriers and would like to request academic accommodations should connect with the disability Resource Center by visiting <https://disability.ufl.edu/students/get-started/>. It is important for students to share their accommodation letter with their instructor and discuss their access needs, as early as possible in the semester.

UF Evaluations Process

Students are expected to provide professional and respectful feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing course evaluations online via GatorEvals. Guidance on how to give feedback in a professional and respectful manner is available at <https://gatorevals.aa.ufl.edu/students/>. Students will be notified when the evaluation period opens, and can complete evaluations through the email they receive from GatorEvals, in their Canvas course menu under GatorEvals, or via <https://ufl.bluera.com/ufl/>. Summaries of course evaluation results are available to students at <https://gatorevals.aa.ufl.edu/public-results/>.

University Honesty Policy

UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge which states, “We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code. On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: “On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment.” The Honor Code (<https://www.dso.ufl.edu/sccr/process/student-conduct-honor-code/>) specifies a number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Furthermore, you are obligated to report any condition that facilitates academic misconduct to appropriate personnel. If you have any questions or concerns, please consult with the instructor or TAs in this class.

In-Class Recordings

Students are allowed to record video or audio of class lectures. However, the purposes for which these recordings may be used are strictly controlled. The only allowable purposes are (1) for personal educational use, (2) in connection with a complaint to the university, or (3) as evidence in, or in preparation for, a criminal or civil proceeding. All other purposes are prohibited. Specifically, students may not publish recorded lectures without the written consent of the instructor.

A “class lecture” is an educational presentation intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject, including any instructor-led discussions that form part of the presentation, and delivered by any instructor hired or appointed by the University, or by a guest instructor, as part of a University of Florida course. A class lecture does not include lab sessions, student presentations, clinical presentations such as patient history, academic exercises involving solely student participation, assessments (quizzes, tests, exams), field trips, private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty or lecturer during a class session.

Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To “publish” means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book, magazine, newspaper, leaflet, or third party note/tutoring services. A student who publishes a recording without written consent may be subject to a civil cause of action instituted by a person injured by the publication and/or discipline under UF Regulation 4.040 Student Honor Code and Student Conduct Code.

Learning Community

As we engage with course material, we will critically evaluate our thoughts, opinions, and assumptions. As a learning community, I ask that we collectively invest in an environment in which all class members feel empowered to take risks, ask questions, experiment, and grow. Dance history frequently intersects with the difficult and at times violent pasts and presents of inequalities related to race, gender, sexuality, class, ability, and more. Some topics, surely, will be more personal than others. Feelings of discomfort often accompany complex issues, and that is OK - oftentimes individual discomfort is a necessary part of our collective learning. I will do my best to offer content warnings in anticipation of material that may be particularly sensitive. I ask that, as part of your rigorous intellectual and physical engagement, you meet the course material as best you can. Respect, openness, and the capacity to listen and respond sensitively and intelligently are of utmost importance in the classroom. Please consult with me should any questions or concerns around course content or classroom climate arise.

- Online Learning Community: Our learning community includes the parts of our lives that play out online. Your commitment to creating a positive learning community includes not only how you interact in class but also how you interact with and/or represent other members of our class online via email, threaded discussions on Canvas, social media, and other platforms. I ask that we be honorable and attentive to how we talk to and about each other both on and offline.

- Email: Please use respectful language when corresponding with me and with each other. Remember that an email is not a text message nor a DM. Please only use your UFL.EDU email account or the email tool within Canvas for e-mail correspondence related to class, begin emails with a formal greeting, and avoid unprofessional colloquialisms. Changes to the Syllabus

While this document provides guidelines for the class, I do reserve the right to change the syllabus at any time during the semester if the need arises. Each class is different, and sometimes it takes some tweaking to respond to the needs of the group. Being flexible with the syllabus allows us to get it right. Thanks in advance for your understanding.
