Hello, I'm Professor Ghadge. Welcome to SYG 2000, Principles of Sociology. Everything you need to know for the entire semester is included in this document. I know it's lengthy and at times boring, but please familiarize yourself with the details.

GENERAL EDUCATION SUBJECT AREA OBJECTIVES

Social and behavioral science courses, like SYG 2000, provide instruction in the history, key themes, principles, terminology, and underlying theory or methodologies used in the social and behavioral sciences. Students will learn to identify, describe and explain social institutions, structures or processes. These courses emphasize the effective application of accepted problem-solving techniques. Students will apply formal and informal qualitative or quantitative analysis to examine the processes and means by which individuals make personal and group decisions, as well as the evaluation of opinions, outcomes or human behavior. Students are expected to assess and analyze ethical perspectives in individual and societal decisions.

Sociology is the systematic study of social life. By studying Sociology, we learn how social groups, institutions, norms and values, and social identities are created and transformed by people through social interaction. We learn how "social structures" like race, gender, class, and caste influence our lives. Therefore, Sociology is the study of social stability, conflict, and change.

Why study Sociology? Sociology is deeply related to our everyday experiences. It provides us with the conceptual, analytical, and theoretical tools—the "sociological imagination"—to understand the world around us. It challenges our taken-for-granted understanding and enables us to see how social forces that may appear unrelated to us impact our lives. In today's global world our lives are connected to people far away from us. Sociology enables us to critically see those connections, thereby enlarging our worldviews. Therefore, Sociology helps us in becoming informed and responsible global citizens.

COURSE OBJECTIVES

1) Introduce students to the basic concepts, theories, and methods that sociologists use. Course materials and activities provide students opportunities to see how social scientist use varied methods to collect information about specific social issues. Moreover, students will critically assess how that information can be used to frame understanding about why social patterns exist and what might be the possible consequences of those patterns.

2) Provide students with a brief overview of sociology as a discipline within the social sciences that exposes students to strategies to identify, study, and address social issues and research questions. Course activities will provide students with opportunities to apply critical thinking skills to evaluate debates about contemporary social issues and the evidence needed to address the issues.

3) Help students to develop the ability to understand how various social processes and structures affect one another.

4) Encourage students to develop a better understanding of how their own lives and significant relationships are shaped by larger social forces.

5) Provide students with insights about how individuals' interactions with others can affect the larger society

Student Learning Goals

- Teach students how to understand the way institutions influence social trends.
- Teach students how to analyze demographic influences on social outcomes.

STUDENT LEARNING OBJECTIVES

The general education Student Learning Outcomes (SLOs) describe the knowledge, skills and attitudes that students are expected to acquire while completing a general education course at the University of Florida. The SLOs fall into three categories: content, communication, and critical thinking:

- 1) Content is knowledge of the concepts, principles, terminology and methodologies used within the discipline. Students demonstrate competence in the terminology, concepts, methodologies and theories used within the discipline.
- 2) Communication is the development and expression of ideas in written and oral forms. Students communicate knowledge, ideas, and reasoning clearly and effectively in written or oral forms appropriate to the discipline.
- 3) Critical thinking is characterized by the comprehensive analysis of issues, ideas, and evidence before accepting or formulating an opinion or conclusion. Students analyze information carefully and logically from multiple perspectives, using discipline specific methods, and develop reasoned solutions to problems.

COURSE FORMAT

This course is completely online; all lecture PPTs will be available on canvas. All assessments will be online, and office hours will also be held online if you ever have questions.

STUDENT RESPONSIBILITIES

Attendance: Being an asynchronous online class, there is no specific requirement of attendance to pass this course. However, you will be expected to demonstrate your active participation in class discussions through the online discussion boards.

Preparation: Student are required to log into class daily to check email updates and respond accordingly, if required. Strong time-management skills to submit assignments on time. Understand that online courses require self-motivation and time to complete course challenges. Knowledge of the material covered in these readings/videos is essential for productive class discussion. Additionally, assignments may require knowledge of the readings/videos assigned for that week.

This is a fully online class. The course is broken up into several modules that must be completed weekly (2 modules per week). Requirements for the two modules must be completed by the end of the week on Monday by 11:59 pm. Each module will consist of textbook readings, PowerPoints, activities/discussion posts, and a quiz. You can access the information for each module by clicking on the Modules folder on the course home page and then clicking on the specific learning module (in each specific module folder you will see a module checklist, the learning objectives, PowerPoint lectures, activities/discussions, and quizzes). In addition to completing the requirements for each module, students must successfully complete two exams administered in the mid and end of the semester. All work for this class must be completed individually.

All quizzes, discussions, and exams are completed and submitted online. Modules will be available on the first day of the assigned week on Tuesday. Exams will be open for one week prior to the due date. To make sure that you do not miss a deadline due to something that comes up at the last minute, it is recommended that you complete your work at least one day ahead of the official due date. The assigned readings for each module and the official due dates for the discussions, quizzes, and exams are posted in the “Course Calendar” on the last page of the syllabus.

Note: The calendar tool in Canvas is there for your convenience; official dues dates are posted on the Course Calendar (last page of the syllabus).

REQUIRED READINGS

Required textbook: Giddens, Duneier, Appelbaum, and Carr (2021). Introduction to Sociology (Seagull 12th edition). W.W. Norton & Co., ISBN: 978-0-393-53802-1.

*Additional readings will be posted on Canvas – all material included in the modules will be covered by students. All other content and discussion boards will be material that may be included in quiz and test assessments.

COURSE REQUIREMENTS, MASTERY OF SLOs, AND GRADING

Your grade will be based on your scores in four assessment categories: Introduction assignment, Discussion Board Participation, Quizzes, and Exams.

Assessment	Description	Percentage of Final Grade
Introduction Assignment	The Introduction Assignment is a completion only assignment intended to offer a general introduction to the class (Communication)	5
Discussion Boards Participation	Discussion Boards will evaluate students' ability to develop connections between topics from lecture and readings to everyday current events (Critical Thinking & Communication)	10
Exams	Exams will evaluate student competence in terminology, concepts, methodologies, and theories used in sociology (Content)	60
Quizzes	Quizzes will evaluate students' ability to interpret and apply information from class readings.	25
Total Grade		100

Introduction assignment (5%)

Discussion Board: You will offer a brief introduction to the class via the online discussion board – this introduction should be relatively concise but offer a general introduction of yourself to the class. This would take the form of a solid paragraph and would engage some information about what you are majoring in (any minors), your status/year, career/job information if relevant, why you are “interested” in course, and at least two things about yourself (typically, students speak to family, pets, hobbies, etc.). The total posting should likely run 5-7 sentences.

Photo: Additionally, please post a photo to your Canvas profile (this occurs in the main Canvas page where you logged in – under “Profile” “Change Picture”). Seeing your photo helps me feel more connected to you as a student and helps me more readily recognize someone—particularly in receiving emails and reading the discussion boards. If for some reason you do not wish to post a personal picture of yourself, I am open to other images of personal significance that represent you.

Important dates for Discussion Board Posts (all are due before 11:59 PM on the specified due date):

Introduction Assignment
Available:	May 15
Due:	May 22

Discussion Board Participation (General) (10%): Your participation in the discussion board should reflect your preparedness, understanding of readings, and intelligent dialogue. Participation may consist of multiple approaches: critical and thoughtful responses to faculty-initiated discussion prompts, or links to videos/news articles/etc. Your discussion posts should be sociological in nature and not be purely opinion based. Any argument pro or against something should be based upon sound reasoning, supported by appropriate evidence. Merely relying upon received or popular knowledge may appropriately support sociological reasoning.

Your discussion posts should not be simplistic commentary such as “I like your posting” or “I totally agree with you” but should demonstrate thoughtful and effective use of course concepts/terms and engagement with the course material. I encourage you to post within each chapter’s discussion – you are not required to reply to the posted “prompt”, but may build and create new threads of discussion—ideas that emerged to you as you read, perhaps links to articles or YouTube videos relating to content, etc. Basically, you may reply to the idea prompt, or create new dialogue – much as would happen in a face-to-face classroom. One never knows what ideas may emerge... new ideas make for far more interesting and engaging dialogue and thought as related to our readings!

You will be expected to participate in all discussion boards, and you are expected to remain an active and effective online participant throughout the semester to secure a strong grade in this component.

In order to get credit for participating in the Discussion Boards, you need to both 1) Post at least once with a thoughtful response to the discussion prompt and 2) Provide a thoughtful response to at least one of you classmates’ responses offering additional detail.

POSTING—The Instructor will post an open-ended thought-provoking question based on the module topic and readings to stimulate discussion. Your response should include a descriptive topic written in the subject line to clearly give others a sense of the discussion. In the body of your post, focus on original thought and opinion about the material. To further show your understanding, provide an original real-world example or personal experience which supports or refutes the material. Each posting should be about 5-7 sentences long.

REPLIES—There can be multiple replies to each post if each reply remains focused on the original topic and continues to extend the conversation. Your replies should clearly state if you agree or disagree with the substance of the original post, extend the conversation with additional original thought or opinion about the material, and clearly provide another unique original real-world example or personal experience which supports or refutes the position. Again, each reply should be about 5-7 sentences long.

You will be assessed in your discussion posting based upon the quality of your posting and of your response posting(s) as per the grading rubric provided at the end of this syllabus.

Participation scores will be distributed in 5 points increments (i.e., 100, 95, 90, 85...). Exceptional participation may result in “extra credit”, via participation score of 105 or 110.

Note, your introductory discussion board posting will count towards this aspect of your course grade.

Important dates for Discussion Board Posts (all are due before 11:59 PM on the specified due date):

Discussion Board	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
Available:	May 15	May 15	May 23	May 23	May 30	May 30	Jun 6	Jun 6	Jun 13	Jun 13	Jun 20
Due:	May 22	May 22	May 30	May 30	Jun 5	Jun 5	Jun 12	Jun 12	Jun 20	Jun 20	Jun 23

Module Quizzes (25%): Students must complete a 20-question multiple choice quiz via Canvas at the end of each module (due by 11:59 pm on the due date at the end of that week: see Course Schedule for due dates). The quizzes will contain multiple-choice, fill-in-the-blank, and T/F questions that cover the material discussed from the assigned textbook. You can access each quiz within each module or by clicking on the “Quizzes” tab at the top of the page. You have 40 minutes to complete the quiz. PLEASE take the quiz after you have completed all the readings and activities. I also suggest that you study for the quiz. If you try to look up the answer for each question (in the text and PowerPoint slides), you will run out of time. Since it is timed, make sure that you will not have any interruptions (i.e., friends, kids, work, etc.). Also, since each quiz is available for two weeks prior to the due date, there are no make-up quizzes; however, I will drop your lowest quiz grade when calculating your quiz average. Students may only take each quiz once. Quizzes are auto graded on Canvas; in general, the quiz associated with a particular topic will open on the first day of the week when we discuss that topic, and it will close the end of last day of the week after we complete the topic.

Important dates for Quizzes (all are due before 11:59 PM on the specified due date):

Quiz #	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9	10	11
Available:	May 15	May 15	May 23	May 23	May 30	May 30	Jun 6	Jun 6	Jun 13	Jun 13	Jun 20
Final Due Date	May 22	May 22	May 30	May 30	Jun 5	Jun 5	Jun 12	Jun 12	Jun 20	Jun 20	Jun 23

Very important: Quizzes must be completed before the due date/time. If you begin the quiz before it is due but do not submit it in time, Canvas will record your grade as a zero. This score will remain and count toward your final grade. Be aware of the time and complete quizzes in a timely fashion.

Exams (2x30% each = 60% total): There are two required exams for this course. Each exam is worth 30% of the final grade. Each exam will cover material from the readings, lectures, class discussions, and videos preceding each exam. Exams will consist of all multiple-choice questions. Please be sure to SAVE as you go! There will be no make-up exams. Please also note, collaboration on tests is a form of academic dishonesty and if noted will be pursued, per below “Plagiarism and Cheating” policies.

Important dates for the Exams (all are due before 11:59 PM on the specified due date):

Exams	Exam 1	Exam 2
Available:	May 30	Jun 20
Due:	Jun 5	Jun 23

Late Submissions, Excused Assignments & Make-Up Assignments/Exams

For discussion boards and quizzes, students can turn in a late submission for partial credit. There will be a 50% reduction in their grade from the total points possible in these situations. For example, if you submit a late reflection and your score is a 90/100, it will be listed as a 40 on Canvas. To receive partial credit, the submission must be within 24 hours of the original due date (so something due at 11:59 PM on Monday must be submitted before 11:59 PM on Tuesday to receive credit). After this 24-hour window, students will receive a zero on the assignment.

Partial credit for late submissions only applies to discussion boards and quizzes, not exams.

Very important: When you view an assignment on Canvas it will show when the assignment is due, and also show when it is available. Make sure you submit your assignment by the due date for full credit. The portal will be open for 24 hours after the due date; this is only so you can submit a late assignment for partial credit.

Students who miss an exam without an excuse may or may not be allowed to take a make-up exam at my discretion. Students who miss an exam must contact me within one hour of the original exam time if they are to be allowed the opportunity for a make-up exam; I will not seek out students to make sure they reschedule.

In certain situations, students with legitimate excuses (university-sponsored activities, religious holidays, etc.) may be allowed to take an exam early at my discretion. Students who will miss an exam for these reasons must notify me at least one week in advance, and appropriate documentation must be provided. Regardless of the reason for missing an exam, all students who take a make-up will have an all-written test (no true/false or multiple-choice questions).

Outside of the scenarios listed above, no early exams will be administered.

If there is a legitimate reason why you miss an assignment you must receive documentation from the university (legitimate reasons include illness, family emergencies, or university-sponsored activities). The easiest way for you to do this is to reach out to the university Care Team (umatter@ufl.edu or by phone at 352-294-2273) and explain your situation. They will gather appropriate documentation and let me know which, if any, days you need to be excused.

Grading Scale

A	94.0–100	C	73.0–76.9
A-	90.0–93.9	C-	70.0–72.9
B+	87.0–89.9	D+	67.0–69.9
B	83.0–86.9	D	63.0–66.9
B-	80.0–82.9	D-	60.0–62.9
C+	77.0–79.9	E	≤ 59.9

Please be aware of your grade trajectory throughout the semester, and if you are concerned about your grade at any point you should speak to me about it in office hours as soon as possible. I will not round up final grades. Also, be aware that Canvas is only a medium for me to display your individual assignment and exam scores. Even though Canvas calculates your overall grade for you, you should always calculate your grade yourself to verify that it is correct.

Accommodations: If you have a disability requiring accommodations, please let me know as soon as possible. To receive accommodations, official documentation from the Disability Resource Center is required.

COURSE POLICIES

Class Protocol: Please be mindful of the following:

- Please do not crosstalk during lectures, when someone is speaking or asking a question, or when we are watching a film or a video.
- Avoid walking in late or leaving early, as it disrupts the class.
- Switch off your cell phones and other electronic devices before coming to class.
- I do not allow computers in the class since this often provides an opportunity for students to become distracted and disengaged. If you require a laptop to take notes, you must provide me with a letter from the Disability Resource Center.
- Please come to class prepared to complete in-class writing assignments.

Classroom Environment—People learn best when they are encouraged to ask questions and express their diverse opinions on course content, including images, texts, data, and theories from across the disciplines. This is especially true in courses that deal with provocative or contemporary issues. UF offers many such courses, where students encounter concepts of race, color, sex, and/or national origin. We teach these important issues because understanding them is essential for anyone who seeks to make economic, cultural, and societal contributions to today's complex world. With this in mind, we do not limit access to, or classroom discussion of, facts, ideas, and opinions—including those that some may find uncomfortable, unwelcome, disagreeable, or even offensive. Students and instructors are encouraged to ask honest questions and thoughtfully engage one another's ideas in response to challenging material. But hostility, disruptive and disrespectful behavior, and provocation for provocation's sake have no place in a classroom; reasonable people disagree reasonably. These guidelines can help instructors and students as they work together to fulfill the University of Florida's mission, which includes exploring intellectual boundaries, creating new knowledge, and pursuing new ideas.

The material in this course does not represent the instructor's personal views and opinions but represents a sociological perspective. The material may challenge some of your common-sense understanding of social inequalities and may lead you to reflect on your own (or your family's) experiences within the stratification system. For some students, this may be the first time they recognize the depth of their disadvantage or the extent of their privilege, which may cause discomfort. Sometimes, your personal experiences may not fit the sociological insights presented in class or the readings. Although this is an opportunity to learn and explore, some students may find this personally challenging and even threatening.

Occasionally, we will engage in a frank discussion of controversial and sensitive topics in this class, including (but not limited to) race, sexuality, political, and religious views. Given the diversity of our experiences, there may be occasions when conflicting viewpoints are expressed, but we must learn to disagree respectfully and with reason.

Therefore, to ensure that we have an effective classroom that is conducive to learning, we need to establish specific ground rules:

- We will create a safe atmosphere in the classroom that is conducive to learning.

- We will respect others and their ideas even when we disagree with someone during class or online discussions. We will respond to ideas rather than personally attacking or labeling the person expressing them.
- Our questions should show some consideration for your audience, and our answers should show some knowledge and context for the topic being discussed.
- We will not dominate class discussions.
- We will not discriminate, harass, or intimidate another student(s).
- We will respect the instructor's role as the class moderator and facilitator.
- We will observe other common-sense courteous behavior in class and during online discussions.

According to legal and university guidelines, I reserve the right to act against consistently disruptive students.

Office Hours: If you need clarification or do not understand what we went over in class I am available to discuss anything with you over Zoom by appointment. While I am happy to explain anything you do not understand or are having trouble with, I will not redo my entire lecture if you have missed a class; come prepared with specific questions.

If you would like to review any of your assessments, you have three days from the day the grades are posted to discuss them. Once this time period has passed these grades are nonreviewable. This policy is to ensure that students are swift with their grade related questions so the professor can move on to more current obligations.

Email policy: Students can contact me via email on my university account (ravighadge@ufl.edu) or through Canvas. I will do my best to reply to emails in a timely fashion. There is one exception: any email sent in the afternoon on a Friday or other non-business day will be replied to on the following business day. When emailing me please put 'SYG 2000' or 'Principles of Sociology' somewhere in the subject line so I can easily identify you. Also, if contacting me through my ufl account please give your name in the email so I can identify you quickly.

UF POLICIES

Academic Misconduct

UF students are bound by The Honor Pledge, which states, "We, the members of the University of Florida community, pledge to hold ourselves and our peers to the highest standards of honor and integrity by abiding by the Honor Code. On all work submitted for credit by students at the University of Florida, the following pledge is either required or implied: "On my honor, I have neither given nor received unauthorized aid in doing this assignment." The Conduct Code specifies the number of behaviors that are in violation of this code and the possible sanctions. Click here to read the Conduct Code. Please consult with the instructor or TAs in this class if you have any questions or concerns.

In-class Recording

Per UF policies, students are permitted to record video or audio of class lectures, although the purposes for which these recordings may be used are strictly controlled. The only allowable purposes are (1) for personal, educational use, (2) in connection with a complaint to the university, or (3) as evidence in, or preparation for, a criminal or civil proceeding. All other purposes are prohibited. Students may not publish recorded lectures without the written consent of the instructor.

A “class lecture” is an educational presentation intended to inform or teach enrolled students about a particular subject, including any instructor-led discussions that form part of the presentation, and delivered by any instructor hired or appointed by the University, or by a guest instructor, as part of a University of Florida course. A class lecture does not include lab sessions, student presentations, clinical presentations such as patient history, academic exercises involving solely student participation, assessments (quizzes, tests, exams), field trips, private conversations between students in the class or between a student and the faculty or lecturer during a class session.

Publication without permission of the instructor is prohibited. To “publish” means to share, transmit, circulate, distribute, or provide access to a recording, regardless of format or medium, to another person (or persons), including but not limited to another student within the same class section. Additionally, a recording, or transcript of a recording, is considered published if it is posted on or uploaded to, in whole or in part, any media platform, including but not limited to social media, book, magazine, newspaper, leaflet, or third party note/tutoring services. A student who publishes a recording without written consent may be subject to a civil cause of action instituted by a person injured by the publication and/or discipline under UF Regulation 4.040 Student Honor Code and Student Conduct Code.

Online Evaluation Policy

Evaluations: Students are expected to provide professional and respectful feedback on the quality of instruction in this course by completing course evaluations online via GatorEvals. Guidance on how to give feedback in a professional and respectful manner is available on the GatorEvals page. Students will be notified when the evaluation period opens. They can complete evaluations through the email they receive from GatorEvals, in their Canvas course menu under GatorEvals, or via this link. Summaries of course evaluation results are available to students on the GatorEvals Public Results page.

Classroom Accommodations for Students with Disabilities

Students with disabilities who experience learning barriers and would like to request academic accommodations should connect with the Disability Resource Center. Click here to get started with the Disability Resource Center. You must share your accommodation letter with me and discuss your access needs as early as possible in the semester.

Student Complaints Policy

If students have concerns about classroom issues, disagreements, or grades, their first point of contact is the classroom instructor, whose contact information appears on the syllabus. If the problem cannot be resolved, the student should email the next departmental contact: in classes with TAs, this is the instructor of record; in classes without TAs, this may be the departmental course coordinator or the department chair. Their contact information can be found on the syllabus or the department website. Email to the departmental contact should include a clear description of the student's concern and supporting documents. Most concerns are resolved at this level. If a resolution cannot be reached at the departmental level, the student will be referred to the Office of the UF Ombuds.

Other Suggestions:

1. Take good notes (this seems obvious but it's surprising how many students do not take very good notes). Having the lecture PowerPoints may not be enough on its own to effectively study for the tests. If you need advice on how to take better notes, I am happy to assist you.
2. There are no stupid questions, so if you do not understand a concept ask for clarification.
3. This is very important: If there is a circumstance that affects your ability to fulfill your class duties, discuss this with me as early as possible. Similarly, if you are concerned about your grade at any point, discuss it with me immediately. Every year I encounter students who contact me during the last week of school inquiring about how they can improve their grades. Our options are very limited at this point, so please take care of these issues early on.

4. Utilize UF's academic resources such as tutoring and other services through the Teaching Center. You can use them for this class and any others in which you need assistance. Many of these services are free and can be very helpful.
